LAGUNA BEACH ARTS ALLIANCE PRESENTS THE 17TH ANNUAL ART STAR AWARDS

The Laguna Beach Arts Alliance (LBAA) proudly presents the 17th Annual Art Star Awards, an evening dedicated to honoring the artists, organizations, and patrons who shape Laguna Beach's vibrant arts community. The event will take place on Wednesday, April 23, 2025, at the Festival of Arts and promises an unforgettable night of celebration, entertainment, and artistic excellence.

A limited number of tickets are available for $150 each, which includes passed heavy hors d'oeuvres and dessert prepared by Starfish restaurant, wine, and all the evening's festivities. To purchase tickets, please visit <https://lagunabeacharts.org/about-us/art-star-awards/> or contact Rob Harryman at rob.harryman@nosquare.org

The awards recognize outstanding contributions to the local arts scene across four categories, with winners receiving the prestigious Louie Award, sculpted by renowned Laguna Beach artist Louis Longi. Additionally, LBAA will present a Lifetime Achievement Award to art historian Jean Stern for his extraordinary impact on California Impressionism and Laguna Beach's cultural legacy.

Guests will be welcomed to a KXFM 104.5 Red Carpet, where nominees and attendees will be interviewed before the festivities begin. Throughout the evening, attendees will enjoy performances by the Laguna Community JaZz Band, live caricatures by David Fleischmann, mesmerizing airbrush body art by Star Shields, and a variety of art demonstrations by Laguna College of Art & Design (LCAD) students. The evening's host will be the always witty and entertaining Chris Quilter, a longtime arts supporter known for his work with No Square Theatre and his contributions to the local community, including his instrumental role in the creation of the Susi Q Senior Center, named in honor of his mother.

"I was honored to be asked to emcee the show, and I was humbled by the thought of how many people must have declined the opportunity," said Chris Quilter, a longtime writer for No Square Theatre's "Lagunatics." "In all seriousness, Laguna Beach is a small town with a big artistic heart, and it's a privilege to celebrate the people who make this community such a special place for the arts."

This year's nominees will be considered for their contributions to the arts in 2024. They include:

- Best Arts Program
- City of Laguna Beach Arts Commission

DECORATE YOUR WAY TO A FESTIVE ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Pairing Shepherd's pie and potato soup with green pints and Irish delights are surefire signs of St. Patrick's Day celebrations. Food and drink may be the stars of the show, but a little festive ambiance can transport guests from your dining room table to the streets of Dublin.

A few seasonal touches are all it takes to complement a menu of corned beef and cabbage. Consider these DIY decorations for this year's St. Patrick's Day party.

Set a St. Paddy's Mood – Show off your holiday spirit for all to see with a homemade wreath that gives your front door a perfect welcoming touch. Cut shamrock shapes out of green construction paper then glue together, edge to edge, to your desired size. Punch a hole in the top shamrock and run string or ribbon through to hold up your work of art.

The Gift of Green – Lend a helping hand to guests who forget their green with shamrock-shaped pins they can attach to shirts or hats. Wooden shamrocks tend to work best with small pins glued to the back. Arrange these easy party favors near the door so your friends and neighbors can grab one as they enter.

A Homemade Pot o' Gold – Send

guests chasing the rainbow and reward their adventures with canning jars filled with candies wrapped in gold. Simply spray paint jars green, fill with gold-wrapped candies and place in various gathering areas for easy-to-reach treats. Custom Cups – Upgrade boring drinkware with a leprechaun look. Find green cups (plastic or paper) and wrap with black ribbon using hot glue to secure. For a final touch, add a gold sticker as the belt buckle.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY IN AMERICA AND IRELAND

Before doing my recent research on St. Patrick's Parades, I assumed, as I imagine that many people do, that the mother of all St. Patrick's Day parades must be in Ireland. In studying the history of the celebrations I learned that my assumption was incorrect.

In fact, the "original" St. Patrick's Day Parade was held in New York, 16 years before the Declaration of Independence was signed. The tradition of celebrating St. Patrick's Day parades began as a response to oppression. An English law forbid the Catholic's parades, but allowed a religious procession after Mass. So, on this technicality, the Irish Catholics got a permit for a church procession. The St. Patrick's procession would leave from the Cathedral after Mass. Therefore the original parades were actually an act of defiance.

While the parades have become an accepted part of the mainstream in the United States, historically, that has not been the case. There are several cities that started having parades in the early years, only to suspend them during times of hardship. The times of hardship included anti Irish sentiment, two World Wars and the Great Depression.

Up until the mid nineteenth century, the majority of Irish immigrants in America were members of the Protestant middle class. The 1845, the Great Potato Famine hit Ireland and close to a million poor, uneducated Catholic Irish started pouring into the United States. The Irish immigrants were despised when they first immigrated, and had trouble finding even menial jobs. They soon began to realize that their great numbers gave them political power and they began to organize. Their voting block became known as the "green machine". The St. Patrick's Day parades became a show of strength for Irish Americans and a "must attend" event for politicians.

As the parades became part of the mainstream society, Protestants celebrated alongside the Catholics and they all enjoyed the party. What started as a religious procession became a celebration with music, dancing and green beer. St. Patrick's Day and green beer have become synonymous. It's traditional in many cities for everyone to go on a pub crawl after the parade and drink copious quantities of green beer, which is simply regular beer with some green food dye added.

While the St. Patrick's Day party reigned in American, the Irish observed St. Patrick's Day as a holy day. St. Patrick's Day had been a solemn holy day for centuries. As a holy day, the saloons were closed, which was the opposite of the parties that occurred in America.

St. Patrick lived over 1600 years ago. He had endured a turbulent life. He was captured and enslaved at the age of 16. He worked as a slave in Ireland, part of that time working as a shepherd. He escaped and became a man of God, entering the priesthood. He was educated in a monastery in France. He was made a Bishop and was returned to Ireland, this time to work as a missionary and convert the pagans to Christianity. He was successful in converting many people to Christianity.

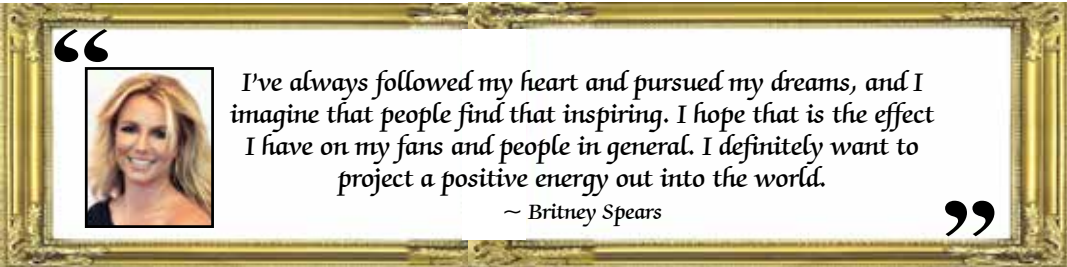

The legend of St. Patrick is that he led the snakes out of Ireland. However, as snakes are not indigenous to Ireland, it is believed that the legend is symbolic. Most believe that the snakes of legend were actually symbolic of the pagans that were converted. St. Patrick is credited with using a shamrock to explain the holy trinity to pagans. Thus the shamrock is symbolic of the holy day.

In 1995, Ireland set up a St. Patrick's Day Festival, with the goal of capitalizing on the popularity of the celebration and to encourage tourism to Ireland.

The First St. Patrick Festival was held on March 7, 1996. In 1997 the event was a 3 day festival. This year the five day festival will feature 4,000 performers, with one millions people celebrating. Events include music, street theater, family carnivals, comedy, street performances, dance, a treasure hunt, night spectacles, and many celebrants.

In Ireland the St. Patrick's Day Festival is an event that draws locals and tourists. The country, with it's long history of honoring St. Patrick and his good works sounds like a great party. On the other hand, if you want to go to the original St. Patrick's Day Parade, New York is the place. Photo by Johnny Cohen

TAKE A REST FROM STRESS 5 STRATEGIES TO COMBAT STRESSFUL TRIGGERS

Stress, the physical or mental response to external causes like overwhelming work assignments or difficult life moments, can add unnecessary pressure to your day to day. While everyone feels stress from time to time, when left untreated or unrecognized, it can begin to wreak havoc in the form of anxiety.

In honor of National Stress Awareness Month, consider these strategies to combat stress from the National Institutes of Mental Health.

Learn Your Triggers

Different events and situations cause stress for different people. Knowing what triggers your stress to kick in – mounds of office paperwork, important financial decisions or hectic mornings, for example – can help you plan and prepare for stress-inducing moments.

Exercise and Eat Right

Maintaining physical health can be beneficial for mental health, too. Find time to do exercises you enjoy like walking, jogging, yoga or playing a sport. Identifying activities that bring you joy can make it easier to fit 30-60-minute workouts into your schedule without adding even more stress. Complement your workout routine with nutritional meals that help you stay on track with your fitness goals.

Practice Relaxation

Whether you find inner peace through journaling, breathing exercises, reading or some other form of slowing down, find what works for you and prioritize fitting it into your daily schedule. Relaxing activities help you slow down the pace of life, providing a chance to reset by doing something you enjoy.

Get Enough Sleep

A lack of quality sleep can add to stress. Creating a bedtime routine can increase your sleep habits and help you achieve the expert-recommended 7-9 hours per night. Put away electronics, which can interfere with your ability to calm your mind, and find an activity that puts you at ease like reading a book or listening to relaxing music. Ensure your bedroom is optimized for comfort by making it cool, dark and quiet.

Create a Network of Support

Everyone experiences stress. Reach out to family members and close friends you can lean on in stressful and frustrating moments. Share your feelings and encourage others to do the same, which can increase trust and help everyone in your circle cope in a positive way.

Find more ways to combat stress and care for your mental health at eLivingtoday.com. (Family Features) Photo courtesy of Unsplash

6 STEPS TO SPRING INTO LAWN AND GARDEN CARE

If cooler weather has you longing for sunny days outdoors, take heart. Once spring rolls around, you can prepare your yard for months of warm-weather enjoyment with these tips.

Clear the Yard

Remove any leaves, rocks or sticks that may have accumulated then cut the grass as short as you can.

Dethatch

Use a thatching rake to remove dead roots and grass.

Treat Weeds

Apply herbicide to treat weed-infested areas. Allow the weed killer to work for about a week then rake to remove dead weeds.

Add Seed and Fertilizer

Depending on your lawn's needs, overseed or spot seed to fill in thin spots. Use a grass variety that matches your climate for best results. Select and apply fertilizer consistent with your grass type then water thoroughly.

Clear Garden Beds of Debris

Remove leaves and other matter that piled up in your garden during the cooler months. Gently turn the soil and work in fresh fertilizer.

Start Planting

Early spring is the time to divide perennials and plant hardier vegetables, such as onions and potatoes. You can also start indoor seeds, if necessary, and move plants outdoors when the weather permits.

Getting some of your lawn and garden care underway now can make those warmer, sunny days feel closer in no time. Find more seasonal tips for prepping your yard at eLivingtoday.com. (Family Features)

5 WAYS OUTDOOR WI-FI CAN KICK YOUR QUALITY OF LIFE UP A NOTCH

The idea of working from home rocketed in popularity and is now a preferred way of life for millions of people. But have you ever settled in at your backyard patio table with your laptop, a cup of coffee, and an urgent project for work, only to find your home's Wi-Fi doesn't extend into your yard? It's a common annoyance that has generated a multitude of homemade fixes, none of which has been quite right or completely reliable.

For many of us, taking the laptop into the backyard should just work, period, and it's supremely annoying when it doesn't. The problem is likely the placement of your router, which has limited range. It's the same sort of problem that spurred Nick Weaver, co-founder and CEO at eero, and his team to create eero, a mesh Wi-Fi network, a decade ago. Only back then, the problem was inside the house.

eero pioneered mesh Wi-Fi to solve annoying dropped connections, buffering streamed movies and dead areas in people's homes. The technology involves a mesh network of multiple access points positioned around the home that replaces a single router. People can place as many eero devices as they need to get fast, reliable Wi-Fi throughout their home, regardless of its shape and size.

Now to the problem of backyard Wi-Fi. As the years went on, eero saw the necessity for a new solution once again, based on customer behavior.

"Since we shipped our first systems in 2016, customers have wanted to expand their eero networks beyond their four walls and cover every inch of their property in Wi-Fi," says Weaver. "Over the years, we've seen our customers come up with all sorts of inventive solutions like eero devices inside weatherproof boxes, in outdoor closets and even strapping them to poles with rubber bands."

Clever, sure, but ultimately not a permanent fix.

It led Weaver and his team to create eero Outdoor 7, which is designed to take eero Wi-Fi to the great outdoors. It's the same sort of device as the one designed for indoor use, but it was a whole different animal to construct because it needed to withstand Arizona summers, Minnesota winters, and everything else Mother Nature dishes out. The product is available now just in time for the holidays, and it's something the whole family will enjoy now through the summer and beyond.

Here are some really fun ideas that outdoor Wi-Fi can help out with:

Keep all outdoor security cameras connected. Security is a growing concern for many homeowners, but a camera is only as good as its Wi-Fi connection. With this new technology, you can have multiple cameras throughout your property, from the garage to the backyard.

Extend Wi-Fi to a tiny house on your property. Whether you use the dwelling as a guest house, a rental, a dedicated home office or a she-shed, the Outdoor 7 makes it easy to stay connected.

Create an outdoor movie theater. A movie under the stars in your backyard on a warm summer's evening just got easier. Stream movies from Amazon or your favorite network without the fear buffering will take hold during the most tense part of the show.

Create a true outdoor room. That term "outdoor room" has been used for a while now to describe, basically, your backyard. But without Wi-Fi, it wasn't truly complete. Now, your patio or deck can really be an extension of your home because you can work out there, check your messages, watch TV or do anything else you can do in your living room.

Work on the beach at your lake cabin. Quality of life is kicked up several notches when you can, for example, spend all summer at your lake cabin, woody retreat or rural getaway, not take any PTO, and get your job done while relaxing outside.

The reasons for extending your Wi-Fi from your home into the great outdoors are endless. - (BPT)

LA JOLLA VILLAGE'S QUEENSTOWN VILLAGE: A SLICE OF NEW ZEALAND

Story and photos by Rico Cassoni

With a Kiwi-inspired lineage and the spirit, love, and good nature NZ Eats Group welcomes guests to experience a taste of New Zealand at any of their restaurants. Queenstown, the adventure capital of New Zealand, is known for breathtaking landscapes, outdoor thrills, and a vibrant town center. That spirit of adventure and hospitality is what NZ Eats hopes to bring to their dining establishments, inviting guests to enjoy good food, laughter, and lasting memories. Their San Diego restaurant portfolio includes Queenstown Public House (Little Italy), their flagship location, Ragland Public House (Ocean Beach), Queenstown Bistro (Westfield UTC mall), Dunedin New Zealand Eats (North Park), Bare Back Grill (Pacific Beach), and Queenstown Village (La Jolla Village).

My wife, Mary, and I had the pleasure of dining at their La Jolla Village location.

This beautiful space features an inviting patio perfect for people-watching, while the interior showcases stunning art deco décor. General Manager Ty Anson shared that the decor shifts every three months, and since it was the day before Valentine's Day, the restaurant was beautifully decorated. Guests were greeted with a six-foot tiered display of roses, greenery, candles, and wine at the entrance, and Valentine's Day-themed decorations throughout, setting a cozy, romantic ambiance.

At the suggestion of our server Chanel Enriquez, we started with the Baked Brie Shareable Plate, a rich and creamy brie round, oozing with luscious oils. The platter was accompanied by tart green apple slices, honey, almonds, and baked crostini. We also ordered the Flower Pot Bread, a signature house-baked bread baked in an actual flower pot, paired with silky honey butter. The Brie and Flower Pot Bread was sympatico.

For entrées, I was drawn to the Parlor Pot Pie, another one of Chanel's recommendations. As a pot pie lover, this was an easy choice. The rimmed dish was filled with tender chicken, carrots, peas, celery, and onions in a creamy gravy, topped with golden puff pastry and served with a house-made cheddar biscuit. The rich, buttery crust and creamy filling was ultimate comfort food.

Mary, on the other hand, adores meatloaf, so she took Chanel's suggestion and ordered the Wellington Meatloaf, a delicious blend of organic beef and pork mixed with carrot, onion, celery, and cheese, topped with crispy fried onions. It was served with sweet potato mash, sautéed carrots, and a tangy, spiced tomato chutney. The flavors were perfectly balanced, and the texture of the meatloaf was just right. As Ty checked in on us, he shared that the New Zealand Meat Pie, Parlor Pot Pie, Wellington Meatloaf, and Pan-Seared King Salmon (sourced from New Zealand) are their most popular dishes.

The wine list featured a nice selection of sparkling, rosé, white, and red wines by the glass as well as a large collection of bottles. With New Zealand's reputation for world-class Sauvignon Blanc, I wasn't surprised to see three different by the glass selections available. Mary paired her meal with a Laird Chardonnay, while I debated between Caymus and Far Niente Cabernet Sauvignon. Since I had Caymus the night before, I opted for the Far Niente Post and Beam Alexander Valley Cabernet Sauvignon, which paired beautifully with the Wellington Meatloaf. In addition to wine, guests can also enjoy creative cocktails, and a variety of draft and bottled beers, including an IPA and Blonde Ale from New Zealand.

Executive Chef Yohalmo Rosales' menu offers a variety of choices, including lighter fare such as dinner salads and sandwiches, as well as rich, comforting New Zealand Faves and Dinner Plate selections. Queenstown also offers Weekday Brunch (Monday-Friday, 11 am to 3 pm) and an expanded Weekend Brunch (Saturday-Sunday, 9 am to 3 pm), with dinner service starting after 3 pm daily. The La Jolla location also features a café and eatery where guests can enjoy indulgent treats like the gluten-free Nectarine Grove Cinnamon Bun.

After dinner, Chef Yohalmo spoiled us with his apple crisp skillet dessert, topped with a granola crumble and vanilla bean ice cream. This is his own creation, and I highly recommend it as the perfect way to end a meal at Queenstown Village.

Queenstown Village is a fantastic spot to enjoy a relaxed meal with great food, friendly service, and a welcoming atmosphere. Whether you're stopping by for brunch, dinner, or drinks, there's something for everyone. For more information on Queenstown Village, visit their website at q-town.com.

BRITNEY SPEARS FORMER HOME LISTED FOR $7.749 MILLION

Baby One More Time - When it comes to the former Britney Spears mansion in Beverly Hills to change hands. It was the home she bought in 2007 in The Summit after her divorce from Kevin Federline, where she could find privacy in the gated-and-guarded community. Britney sold it in 2012 at a $2 million loss. Previously on the market in 2018 at $9 million, it is now listed at $7.749 million.

The Old World vibe of the Italianate villa-style home is still warm and inviting, and from the look of its upbeat modern interior, seems to have improved with a few years of maturity. Built in 2001 and measuring in at almost 7,500 square feet, the rooms are large and airy and open to take advantage of the mild climate. The interior opens into a grand foyer dressed in a huge chandelier with glimpses of the second floor that overlooks the entry. A few steps inside reveal the wrought-iron banister leading up the stairs that continues across the second-floor opening that acts as a large catwalk, also with views over the formal living room with its impressive fireplace. Crisp, white and bright, with clerestory windows adding even more light, it is a perfect backdrop for art, special antiques and statement-making potted trees. Additionally there is the formal dining room, chef's kitchen open to a large family room that opens to the pool deck and thick privacy hedges. There is a cheerful breakfast nook with built-in seating that is surrounded by windows on three sides. The six bedrooms and seven baths include a master suite with its own private balcony and fireplace, sumptuous bath and large paneled walk-in dressing room/closet. There is also an office, a media room and multiple entertaining venues both inside and out.

The Summit has been the choice neighborhood for elite entertainers who want a paparazzi-proof location where they can mingle with their peers and their children can play peacefully away from curious onlookers. It has been home to Gwen Stefani, J-Lo, Ariana Grande and Britney.

Directory Advertising Hits the Jackpot for Small Business with a Limited Ad Budget $49.95

"I'm not a big business, but I know that you have to advertise someplace and these little ads don't cost too much so I figure if you expect to get any new customers, I gave the little 'directory' ads in the newspaper a try. Nothing happened for the first week, not even a phone call. Then Boom! comes three new customers. Paid for my little ads and a nice profit. I'd say I hit the jackpot. Sign me up for another week newspaper ladies!"

The above story may not be exciting but is typical of advertisers who are shopping for advertising that is affordable but gives them something back for their money. Here's another:

As a Woman Who Owns A Small Business These Newspaper Directory Ads are a Great Value

"We women have to work harder to make a small business grow. Thanks to small, affordable ads in this newspaper I've got ads running every week. Every call helps my business grow. I give you an A+ for good prices and steady results."

Looking for the Penny Saver in all the Wrong Places

"I Used to get pretty good results from the Penny Saver, but when the Penny Saver closed up, I found this newspaper's little directory ads are even cheaper and work just about as good. Usually get two or three calls a month and most of them wind up being my customers. My bookkeeper says your directory ads work pretty good for the money"

Newspaper Directory Ads Worked Just Fine, Cost Less than Half!- Nice!

"We tried some slick magazine ads that had beautiful pictures on the cover and they worked real good for a while but they were costing us an arm and a leg so we tried these little directory ads in your newspaper. The ads are smaller, but cost way less than half of what we were paying the magazines and the newspaper directory ads seem to work about as well. We are glad we tried them. They are a pretty good deal for the low price."

New Business Owner Likes Lower Priced Ads

"I Just Started my New Business and Happy that I Can Afford Your Newspaper Directory Ads. I need to attract new customers and these ads are priced just right."
